MAIN FEATURES

Note: Survey estimates are subject to sampling variability, as explained in paragraph 8 below.

In September 1983, there were an estimated 4,479,300 civilians aged 45 years and over. Of these:

> 2,155,400 were retired from full-time work. 872,200 had retired from full-time work aged less than 45 vears, and 1,283,300 had retired from full-time work at age 45 years or more. Of those who had retired from full-time work at age 45 years or more:

> > Most (709,900 or 55.3 per cent) had invalid, age etc. pensions as their current main source of income. Other main sources of income were:

- -war pensions for 155,400 (12.1 per cent)
- -investments for 135,800 (10.6 per cent)
- -superannuation for 111,400 (8.7 per cent)
- -dependent on another person for 105,600 (8.2 per cent)
- -and 65,300 (5.1 per cent) had other sources.

832,000 had retired from full-time work early:

- -339,100 (40.8 per cent) due to own ill health
- -231,800 (27.9 per cent) decided not to work anymore or wanted more leisure time
- -88,400 (10.6 per cent) had no financial need to work
- -68,700 (8.3 per cent) for family reasons
- -34,200 (4.1 per cent) because they could not get a job
- -and 69,800 (8.4 per cent) had other reasons for retiring early.

1,600,200 had not retired from full-time work.

441,000 had never worked full-time.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

Introduction

In association with the September 1983 labour force survey conducted throughout Australia, persons aged 45 years and over who had retired from full-time work were asked about their age at retirement; retirement scheme coverage and type of payment derived from these schemes; housing arrangements and main source of income after retirement.

- During the two weeks beginning 12 September 1983 specially trained interviewers asked the questions of those of the 70,000 respondents in the September labour force survey who fell within the scope of this survey.
- This publication contains only a summary of the results of the survey. Estimates shown are preliminary and may be revised. Further information which will be published as soon as possible is available on request. Results of the only other similar survey, conducted in May 1980 have been published in Persons Aged 50-69 Years Ceasing Full-Time Work, Australia (6238.0).

Scope

- The survey included all civilians aged 45 years and over except:
  - (a) certain diplomatic personnel of overseas governments, customarily excluded from census and estimated populations;
  - (b) overseas residents in Australia;
  - (c) dependants of non-Australian defence forces stationed in Australia;
  - (d) persons permanently unable to work, some patients in hospitals and sanatoria and inmates of reformatories, jails, etc.

Definitions

A person who had retired from full-time work was a person who has a full-time job and who had ceased full-time labour force activity (i.e. was not working fulltime, was not looking for full-time work and did not intend to look for, or take up, full-time work at any time in the future).

- 6. A person who retired from full-time work early was a person who retired from full-time work at age 45 years or more but before the age of 60 years, if female, or 65 years, if male.
- 7. A retirement scheme included superannuation schemes, life assurance policies or similar schemes that provided a financial benefit when the person left full-time work.
- 8. A superannuation scheme was any fund, association or organisation set up for the purpose of providing financial cover for members when they retire. A life assurance policy was any endowment policy covering the life of a person which would mature when he or she left full-time work.

Comparability of Series

- 9. The scope of the May 1980 survey was restricted to persons aged 50 to 69 years compared to all persons aged over 45 years in this survey. Some estimates from the May 1980 survey related only to persons who had worked in a full-time job within the last twenty years. In addition, there have been some changes to question wording and sequencing. Care should therefore be exercised in comparing estimates from the May 1980 survey with the September 1983 survey.
- 10. The differences between estimates from the May 1980 and September 1983 surveys for persons aged 50 to 69 years who had and who had not retired from full-time work may in part be due to changing economic and social circumstances, such as, part-time workers now working full-time or looking for full-time work and persons changing their intentions to look for, or take up, full-time work.
- 11. The May 1980 publication, Persons Ceasing Full-Time Work, also included details of the retirement intentions of persons aged 50 to 69 years who had not retired from full-time work. These details were not collected in September 1983.

Reliability of the estimates

- 12. Estimates in this publication are subject to two sources of error:
  - (a) sampling error: since the estimates are based on information obtained from occupants of a sample of dwellings they are subject to sampling variability; that is they may differ from the figures that would have been produced if all dwellings had been included in the survey. One measure of the likely difference is given by the standard error. More information about this topic will be found in The Labour Force, Australia (6203.0). A table of estimated standard errors for this survey follows these notes. Estimates with a standard error of more than about 27 per cent have not been shown in this publication, as the degree of sampling variability would seriously detract from their value for most reasonable used. Although figures for these small components can, in some cases, be derived by subtraction they should not be regarded as reliable.

(b) non-sampling error: inaccuracies may occur because of imperfections in reporting by interviewers and respondents and errors made in the coding and processing of data. These inaccuracies may occur in any enumeration, whether it be a full count or a sample. Every effort is made to reduce the non-sampling error to a minimum by careful design of questionnaires, intensive training and supervision of interviewers and efficient operating procedures.
